What is Upward Bound?

Upward Bound is a federally funded college-prep program through the U.S. Department of Education designed to support and motivate high school students in their pursuit to graduate from high school while preparing for college.

Who Can Join?

- Rising 9th-11th graders enrolled at Miyamura, Tohatchi, or Gallup high schools.
- U.S. citizens/permanent residents
- First-generation students or low-income
- Motivated to pursue higher education after high school.

What is the Cost?

Upward Bound is a FREE college-access program. All activities, travel, and services are fully funded.

TRIO Upward Bound Vision

To inspire and to empower all Upward Bound participants to reach their full potential, positively impacting their families and communities, while also encouraging participants to lead, self-advocate, and think critically in a diverse global society.

TRIO Upward Bound Goals

- Empower socially and economically challenged students to graduate from high school successfully.
- Assist and support students and their families in the higher education admissions process.
- Motivate students to enroll in and graduate from a college/university or trade school.
- Enrich students' lives academically, socially, and culturally.
