TRIO History

The TRIO education programs emerged out of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, which was passed in response to the administration's War on Poverty. Upward Bound was created in 1964, and was followed in 1965 by Talent Search, a second outreach program created as part of the Higher Education Act. In 1968, Student Support Services, which was originally known as Special Services for Disadvantaged Students, was authorized and funded by the Higher Education Amendments. By the late 1960's, the term "TRIO" was coined to describe these three Federal programs.

TRIO programs have helped some famous people get on their way—people like Oprah Winfrey, actress Angela Bassett, and ABC News correspondent John Quinones, who were all Upward Bound students.

Over the years, the TRIO Programs have been expanded and improved to provide a wider range of services and to reach more students who need assistance. The Higher Education Amendments of 1972 added a fourth program to the TRIO group by authorizing the Educational Opportunity Centers. The 1976 Educational Amendments authorized the Training Program for Federal TRIO Programs, initially known as the Training Program for Special Programs Staff and Leadership Personnel. Amendments in 1986 added a sixth program, the Ronald E. McNair Post-baccalaureate Achievement Program. Additionally, in 1990, the Department created the Upward Bound Math/Science program to address the need for specific instruction in the fields of math and science. The Upward Bound Math/Science program is administered under the same regulations as the regular Upward Bound program, but it must be applied for separately. And finally, the Higher Education Amendments of 1998 authorized the TRIO Dissemination Partnership program to encourage duplicating successful practices of TRIO programs. These amendments provided incentives for institutions and agencies to adopt valuable TRIO program components, practices, strategies, and activities.

You can find the legislative requirements for all TRIO programs in the Higher Education Act of 1965, Title IV, Part A, and Subpart 2

TRIO/SSS Mission

The mission of TRIO/Student Support Services is to motivate, serve, and support culturally diverse students, to facilitate transition from one level of education to the next, and to encourage social, cultural, and leadership development.

TRIO/SSS Vision

To be the model retention program at the UNM Gallup while being recognized for our commitment to excellence and quality service.

TRIO/SSS Program Policies and Procedures

Application Process

When applying to TRIO/SSS program, the student must fill out an application. In addition to the application, the following information is required:

- Accuplacer test scores (usually taken when you first registered to be a student at UNM-G.
- Tax forms (most recent, if requested)
- If you did not file taxes, then you will need to fill out the income verification sheet on the back of the application.

Once you have completed and turned in the required forms, your application will be reviewed and this process takes about one week. A student may be eligible for our program if they are one or a combination of the following: have low income, be a first generation student, or have a disability. After you are accepted, an intake will be scheduled to inform you on the many services that TRIO provides and guidelines/rules of the lab.

Required Project Services and TRIO/SSS Program Removal

After the program intake and follow up meeting are completed, the new TRIO/SSS participant is required to utilize any of our services within six (6) weeks of the program intake. Failure to utilize program services will result in being removed from the program. Other actions that can cause a participant to be removed as a TRIO/SSS participant are:

- lack of communication with the TRIO/SSS project staff
- disrespectful or abusive behavior towards TRIO/SSS staff (including Tutor/Mentors) or students

If Your Contact Information Changes

It is very important for the TRIO/SSS program office to have your correct contact information. If you change mailing addresses or phone numbers, please inform the TRIO/SSS staff as soon as possible.

Assessment

The use of a comprehensive needs assessment, College Student Inventory (CSI), will be taken by the participant at the program intake. This inventory includes several methods to measure self-efficiency, resiliency, study skills, and learning styles. This inventory helps the TRIO/SSS project staff with identifying the specific needs, strengths, and challenges of each eligible participant and allows the TRIO/SSS program coordinators to develop an Individual Development Plan (IDP) for each participant by clearly identifying the specific assistance needed by the participant.

After the initial intake, an individual follow up meeting will be set up. During this follow up meeting, the findings from the CSI are discussed with the participant and an Individual Development Plan will be developed. This IDP will include their academic, financial, career, and personal objectives. Additionally, participants can discuss levels of family and social support, family and work responsibilities, self-reported academic competencies and perceived deficiencies, financial circumstances, career interests, preferred learning styles, access to computers and other electronic resources, as well as cross-cultural differences in communication and information processing. These meetings are a useful measure to help participants identify and address the economic, personal, and familial and social challenges they may face as well as the necessary tools to overcome adversity.

Monitoring

TRIO/SSS provides monitoring for our participants during the semester and is tracked by the TRIO/SSS Mentor Coordinator. The academic progress of each participant is monitored at five (5) and ten (10) weeks during each semester. The Mentor Coordinator contacts the participant's instructor to gain feedback regarding the participant's attendance, class participation, testing results, and overall progress. Once faculty feedback is received, the Mentor Coordinator works with the Tutors/Mentors to contact those participants in need of academic or personal support.

When academic support is needed, participants work with the Tutor Coordinator to develop strategies and short-term goals to address academic issues. Tutors/Mentors contact participants throughout the term for monitoring sessions, the Tutor Coordinator works with participants who require academic interventions, and the Mentor Coordinator stays in regular communication with faculty. Regular participant and faculty contacts assure that interventions strategies are developed to solve any personal issues or academic difficulties that arise before these issues or difficulties result in permanent, negative outcomes.

Academic Tutoring

During each semester, TRIO/SSS Tutors/Mentors offer one-on-one tutoring using a diverse array of culturally relevant curriculum and learning objectives to TRIO/SSS participants. The TRIO/Tutor Coordinator and Tutors/Mentors assist participants in their areas of specialty, such as Math, Natural Sciences, Reading and Writing across the curriculum.

The goals of tutoring:

- To promote and support active and independent learning.
- To develop a positive approach to learning.
- To refer students to effective study skills techniques, such as workshops and online resources.
- To assist students in becoming active in the learning process.

Tutor responsibilities:

- Assisting students in identifying problem areas through question and answer
- Using examples to demonstrate concepts and theories, providing opportunity for practice
- Making appropriate referrals to workshops and online resources to help students with study skills

- Complete Participant Contact Logs for the Tutor Coordinator to enter into Student Access (SA) database utilized during the Annual Performance Report (APR)

Final Thoughts on Tutoring:

- The tutor's job is to assist you in the learning process, not to answer every question or solve every problem you might have. Nor is it the tutor's job to provide you with services that might give you an unfair academic advantage. The tutor is there to help you understand and/or review concepts covered in your courses, not to do your coursework.
- You are responsible for your own performance. If you have questions or problems beyond the scope of the tutor-tutee relationships, please see your professor.
- Tutoring is a resource, the TRIO/Student Support Services program is not intended to be a convenience to you, but rather a resource you may access if you act responsibly.

Academic Advisement

Academic advisement occurs with participants throughout the year beginning with their first intake session. TRIO/SSS staff incorporates proven coaching methods to help participants become responsible and active participants in the decisions they make. These coaching techniques are used in each individual academic advisement session with participants, which occur as needed or as a result of monitoring feedback or monitoring discussions. TRIO/SSS project staff encourages participants to make appointments for advisement purposes, and we will accommodate walk-ins as best as we can.

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)

This federal law protects the rights of matriculated students at post-secondary institutions, regardless of age, in regard to their educational records. The Act grants four specific rights to students:

- The right to inspect their education records
- The right to seek to amend their educational records if they believe them to be in error.
- The right to consent to disclosure of their records.
- The right to file a complaint with the FERPA Office in Washington.

Students have the rights to grant someone access to their academic record at UNM by completing the Student Information Proxy Form.

If the student has not granted access to their records, TRIO/SSS project staff cannot share information about their educational records to anyone but the student/participant.

This Act also dictates that any UNM staff member communicate only to unm.edu email addresses.

Academic Advisor Expectations

Participants can expect the advisor to:

- Understand and effectively communicate the curriculum, university and college policies and procedures.
- Encourage and support participants as they gain the skills to define and develop clear and attainable educational plans and goals.
- Provide participants with information and strategies for utilizing the available resources on campus.
- Assist participants in understanding the purpose and goals of higher education and its effects on their personal lives and future goals.
- Monitor and accurately document participant's progress toward meeting their goals.
- Be accessible during office hours for communication with participants by walk-in advising, telephone, or e-mail.
- Maintain confidentiality.

Participant Expectations

Participants have responsibilities in the advising partnership that can assist them in their academic development. These responsibilities include:

- Making regular contact with advisors each semester.
- Coming prepared to each appointment with questions and/or material for discussion.
- Being an active learner by participating fully in the advising experience.
- Asking if they do not understand an issue or have a specific concern.
- Completing all assignments and recommendation from their advisor.
- Gathering all relevant decision-making information.
- Informing their advisor of their personal values and goals and discuss this in regards to their interests and abilities.
- Becoming knowledgeable about college programs, policies, and procedures.
- Accepting responsibility for their decisions.
- Attend class on a regular basis.
- Be prepared. This means bringing textbook, notes, homework, pen/pencil, current assignments, course syllabus, and other necessary materials for tutoring
- Attempt to complete the homework assignments on your own before receiving tutoring
- To be productive during the tutoring sessions. This means no excessive socializing.
- Prepare for tutoring sessions by creating questions to ask the tutor regarding assignments

LoboAchieve

LoboAchieve CONNECT facilitates meaningful contact between students their advisors. The system encourages students to engage more deeply in their academic lives by connecting them to the people and resources in place to help them succeed.

- Students will know who their academic advisor is.
- Students will see selected advising notes from their advisor.

- Know immediately when the institution has a concern about their academic performance and which support services are available to them.
- Schedule appointments online to meet with their advisor or others at the institution who is in their network.

Advisement Holds

We place advisement holds on your account. These holds ensure that we meet with you for advisement, which is a Department of Education requirement, and is a proactive advisement action we take. When we meet for advisement, we never fully release the hold, we simply post-date it. These holds DO NOT drop you from your courses, affect your financial aid, or affect any bursar issues (i.e. ordering transcripts). Advisements holds prevents you from registering for courses and changing your schedule without contacting us first. The holds will be permanently released when you earn your Associates degree, become accepted into a Bachelor program, or decide you no longer want to be a TRIO/SSS participant.

Financial Aid Assistance/ Assistance in Completing FAFSA/ Provide Resources for Locating Public and Private Scholarships

The TRIO/SSS project staff are well familiar with Federal Student Financial Aid Programs and works closely with participants to assure that their financial needs are met by both explaining and assisting in completing FAFSA, advocating for participants with the Financial Aid office when any issues arise, assisting participants in locating additional financial assistance, such as scholarships, informing participants of different funding opportunities they may be eligible for, and providing individual financial aid counseling. TRIO/SSS staff attempt to reduce dependency on student loans by instructing them on how to find alternative sources of income such as work-study, scholarships, and part-time employment.

FAFSA

When applying for student aid and many other scholarships, the participant will need to fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FASFA). If you are considered a dependent student, you will need to have your parents' tax information, social security information, and birthdate. Also, you will need your own tax and Social Security information. Recently, FASFA has started a program called the FSA ID and you will need to complete this in order to complete the FASFA. The FSA ID webpage can be found on the official FASFA website (fafsa.ed.gov). During the month October, TRIO/SSS typically hosts FAFSA Fridays. These Fridays are dedicated to assisting participants complete the FAFSA before the UNM priority date of January 6.

Improve Financial and Economic Literacy

Each academic year the TRIO/SSS program, in conjunction with UNM-G Financial Aid and local businesses, will annually provide four workshops to enhance financial/economic literacy. The workshops are designed to provide a working knowledge of financial planning, the banking system, and various sources of financial aid. The workshops will address loan and credit management to provide a platform for identifying and learning from previous financial mistakes. The curriculum that may be used in these workshops has been adapted from the My Green Campaign developed by First Nations Development Institute, along with the Seven Generations Money Management developed by the Northern Arizona University College of Business so that all of the information provided in financial and economic literacy workshops is culturally relevant. Additionally, TRIO/SSS has partnered with Cash Course to provide free, online financial literacy workshops to participants.

Services to help students transfer to a 4-year university

Transfer opportunities are discussed with participants when they first begin receiving services and long-term goal setting and academic planning is discussed during each advisement session; this helps participants gain awareness of transfer opportunities so they may begin developing positive academic mindsets. In the summer of each academic year, a transfer trip is organized in coordination with the advisement and assistance from staff at four-year universities. With the support of peers and TRIO/SSS staff, participants discover the energy necessary to pursue the adventure of leaving home to complete personal academic goals. TRIO/SSS participants also participate in College Day transfer fairs that are offered on campus once a semester.

Career Guidance

New participants are asked to consider several career paths at the time of the initial intake. When appropriate, participants may be referred to take a career assessment either online or with the Career Services department. Semester by semester guidance is also given to ensure that TRIO/SSS participants are knowledgeable about the process of continued schooling, transfer processes, how to build a resume, how to use the computer to search for employment, and the identification of and application to internship opportunities during summer sessions.

Cultural Enrichment Activities

Several times during the academic year, participants are provided the opportunity to participate in cross-cultural experiences and performing arts to explore and exchange alternative world views, beliefs, and life ways. Due to the rural nature of UNM-G and surrounding communities in which many of our participants reside, there are not many opportunities for participants to experience cultural events, such as theatre, museums, musical performances, etc. Because participants miss out on these opportunities, they devalue them in their educational journey and they often lessen the impact they may have on one's life. They may question the usefulness of literature, music, and art appreciation, and other cultural values as taught to them in the classroom. TRIO/SSS feels it is important to expose project participants to events, ideas, and performances they would otherwise not have the opportunity to attend. This is a positive addition to retention efforts. These enrichment activities will be announced via email and flyers and a sign-up sheet will be provided at the front desk. TRIO/SSS requires a monetary deposit (no more than $20 dollars) from participants. This deposit confirms that the participant is serious about attending the trip so that TRIO/SSS project staff can plan appropriately. The deposit will be returned to the participant on the day of the activity. Participants should make every effort to inform TRIO/SSS project that they are not able to attend the activity beforehand.

Mentoring

TRIO/SSS takes a holistic approach to student development by focusing on both academic and non-cognitive factors. During the intake process College Student Inventory Survey results will be used to help match participants to one of five Tutors/Mentors. Tutors/Mentors will then contact their assigned mentees bi-weekly to help them adjust to the program and provide support to participants. The Mentor Coordinator will also reach out to faculty at five and ten weeks of each term to solicit their feedback on participants; this will be conveyed to the Peer Tutors/Mentors so it can be discussed with participants during regular mentoring sessions.

In addition to the individualized mentoring sessions, the Mentor Coordinator will facilitate group mentoring sessions; participants will be grouped by interest, program, and/or matching criteria. Group sessions will be scheduled monthly, and participants will engage in a facilitated discussion on a specific topic they may need assistance with; program alumni and upper division students will, on occasion, be invited to speak to groups on specific areas as well. This process allows for peer-to-peer mentoring and fosters a climate of interdependence while allowing participants to develop support networks, ultimately creating a sense of belonging. This bolsters the individualized support participants receive from their assigned Peer Tutor/Mentor. Examples of topics to be discussed during individual and group mentoring sessions include: navigating academic processes and identifying resources, career exploration, developing positive academic behaviors and mindsets, learning self-management tools and techniques, balancing life roles and managing competing responsibilities, diminishing self-doubt and developing confidence, learning how to adapt, problem solving, and overcoming adversity.

Advocacy

TRIO/SSS participants at UNM-G often experience extended family, economic, medical issues and ceremonial needs plus transportation problems in this rural area. Hence, class attendance is problematic. The participant does not realize that the university system may be sympathetic to his or her plight if approached appropriately through formal requests and accompanying supportive documents. TRIO/SSS staff members serve as participant advocates by contacting the faculty on record and may negotiate alternative arrangements to complete the required course work. The TRIO/SSS staff also advocates on the participant's behalf by coaching those participants who are required to submit a financial aid appeal letter to re-instate their financial aid. In addition, the Program Coordinators work closely with the Accessibility Resource Center to advocate on behalf of TRIO/SSS participants with disabilities to minimize institutional barriers that may impede access and to promote academic inclusion by negotiating alternate accommodations.

Computer Center

Data indicates that there is still much of the Gallup and surrounding areas lacking access to internet services and/or a computer. Correspondingly, home use of internet resources for study and research remains minimal. Fifteen desktop computers with Internet and printing access serve participants' needs in the TRIO/SSS Computer Lab and are equipped for interactive, electronic/self-paced tutorials. Printing is available for TRIO/SSS participants in the TRIO/SSS lab. Please note that our computers are purchased using federal funds. Because of this, our computers are primarily for our participants. By using our computers and printers, you are agreeing to abide by UNM COPYRIGHT GUIDELINES:

Copyright and fair use are the law. For help in understanding how copyright and fair use laws apply to course-related material, please read the following UNM copyright guidelines for production of student course readers:

- Limit course reader material to:
 - Single chapters from books
 - Single articles from a journal issue.
- Include:
 - Any copyright notice on the original
 - Appropriate citations and attributions to the source.
- Obtain permission for materials that will be used repeatedly by the same instructor for the same class.
- We will not copy materials intended to be "consumable" in the course of study or of teaching. These include workbooks, exercises, standardized tests, test booklets, and answer sheets.

TRIO/SSS Space

Our space is primarily for our participants to use. Therefore, friends, relatives, children, significant others are not allowed. If seen in the lab, they will be approached and participants will be reminded that this space is specifically for our participants and the non-participant will be asked to leave. If the non-participant is a student of UNM-G, they may be given a one day pass to utilize our services. Also, please keep in mind that this is a shared space which is intended to provide student support services, so please be considerate of others. Please keep your voice level at an appropriate level, turn cell phones to vibrate, and take phone calls outside. Disruptive behavior will not be tolerated.

Reference Library

TRIO/SSS participants have full access to a reference library available in the computer/learning lab for in house use, research materials and self-paced learning tutorials (DVDs and software) in math, language arts, and basic word processing. Math, reading and writing textbooks, dictionaries, thesaurus, electronic and printed encyclopedias, and printed handouts, supplemental study guides, as well as miscellaneous resources including course syllabi, grading rubrics and sample assignments are housed here.

Graduation

TRIO/SSS participants eligible for graduation need to apply a semester prior to completion of their degree program. Contact your TRIO/SSS advisor to know your expected graduation date and to receive the graduation forms needed to be filled out.

Pending and Inactive Status

If you do not enroll for classes in the fall or spring term, you will be placed on pending status with the TRIO/SSS program. Pending status guarantees that you will still have a spot in the TRIO/SSS program if you return the following term. If you do not return the following term, meaning that you are not enrolled for two consecutive semesters, you will no longer be a TRIO/SSS participant and will have to reapply to reenter the program. Please communicate with staff about lack of enrollment.

TRIO/SSS Grievance Policy

Every effort will be made by the TRIO/SSS Project Staff and Tutor/Mentors to ensure fair, respectful treatment of all TRIO/SSS participants and that the services we provide will be of highest quality. TRIO/SSS realize that participants may feel that they were not treated fairly or with respect by TRIO/SSS project staff and/or Tutor/Mentors or that TRIO/SSS project staff and/or Tutor/Mentors may not have provided quality service. TRIO/SSS believes that any issue of this sort is most effectively handled and resolved by those closest to the problem, having the best understanding of the issues, and having the ability to formulate a mutually acceptable resolution. Therefore, TRIO/SSS encourages participants to make these issues known in the hopes that they can be resolved through open and cooperative dialogue. If participants do not feel comfortable talking directly to TRIO/SSS project staff, they can speak to:

Academic Integrity/Honesty

The purpose of this section is to assist faculty in creating an atmosphere that promotes academic integrity among students at The University of New Mexico. In furtherance of this goal, faculty are encouraged to educate students as to the definition of academic dishonesty, the procedures for addressing academic dishonesty, and the consequences of such behavior.

Faculty can play a major role in assisting students to understand the importance of academic integrity. An explanation of various forms of academic dishonesty can give students a clear understanding of the expectations for their academic work at The University of New Mexico.

Academic dishonesty is a violation of UNM's Student Code of Conduct. Academic dishonesty as defined by that code, includes, but is not limited to:

"dishonesty in quizzes, tests or assignments; claiming credit for work that is not one's own; hindering the academic work of other students; misrepresenting academic or professional qualifications within or without the University; and nondisclosure or misrepresentation in filling out applications or other University records."

Prevention Techniques

Faculty members have found that some of the following suggestions have been beneficial in addressing academic dishonesty and preventing its occurrence.

Outline your expectations:

- Discuss academic dishonesty as outlined in the Student Code of Conduct.
- Reaffirm the importance of academic integrity within the educational process.
- Present an appropriate ethical model for students.
- Create an environment that encourages academic honesty and fairness.
- Follow-up on cases where you suspect academic dishonesty.
- Address the issue in the class syllabus.

Utilize appropriate classroom techniques to help PREVENT academic dishonesty:

- Maintain control of exams by collecting all of them after each exam, or rewriting exams each semester (some student organizations may keep test files).
- Keep your exams in a secure part of your office and try to eliminate "waste" copies which may surface later.
- For large classes or multiple sections, faculty may want to use multiple forms of the examination.
- Utilize proctors to assist in large classes.

- Distribute the weight given to each examination/paper so students are not as tempted to cheat.
- Do not utilize undergraduate students to type or duplicate examinations.
- Check student's identification (photo ID) and have students sign the answer sheet when turning in the examinations, so signatures can be compared.

Procedures

If a faculty member believes that a student has violated academic dishonesty guidelines set forth within their course, the faculty member should follow procedures published in The UNM Student Pathfinder. According to these procedures, when a violation appears to have occurred within an academic process, the following should take place:

- Prior to making a decision, the faculty member will discuss the apparent violation with the student and give them a chance to explain.
- After the discussion, the faculty member may drop the matter if the violation is unfounded.
- Faculty may also impose a grade reduction up to an "F" in the course and/or involuntarily withdraw the student from the course. It is best to consult with the Chair or Dean of your department to levy a sanction that is appropriate and consistent with previous occurrences.
- The faculty member is strongly encouraged to report the matter to the Dean of Students Office by using the Faculty Adjudication Form (provided by that Office) or by sending written documentation of the incident.
- A faculty member can request to have the Dean of Students Office keep a record of the incident or pursue the situation as a violation of the UNM Student Code of Conduct. This decision is typically up to the faculty member, unless there has been a previous incident of academic dishonesty or the incident calls for further action.
- A student may appeal a faculty imposed sanction to the Department Chair, Dean of College, and the Provost as provided in the Student Grievance Procedure found in the UNM Pathfinder.

Under the Student Code of Conduct, additional disciplinary action may be initiated by the Dean of Students Office, particularly in overt cases of academic dishonesty, or if the student has a previous offense on file. Should a faculty member wish to view the procedures the student may encounter through the Dean of Students Office, please view the UNM Student Code of Conduct.

Sanctions

Possible sanctions for academic dishonesty range from a verbal or written warning to disciplinary probation, suspension or expulsion, along with attendance at appropriate workshops or other educational sanctions. Specific definitions of these sanctions can be found in the UNM Pathfinder.

Any questions about the policies or procedures regarding student academic dishonesty may be addressed to the Dean of Students Office.

Information in this document has been edited from source documents, including the UNM Pathfinder. If questions arise regarding the specific meaning or interpretation of policies, source document wording will prevail.

Dear Reviewer,

This letter shall serve to inform you of the reasons why I failed to meet the standards for academic progress. I will begin with a description of my lobo circumstances and a plan to get back into good lobo standing.

My wife and I recently had puppies, which added to the stress of school. We also had our lobo den flooded. We looked to other lobo families in the neighborhood but none of their packs wanted to help us. We then decided to look into lobo placement services as seen by our attached appointment card with the national lobo society. Our puppies also needed their vaccination shots that is also attached.

If re-instated I will go from full-time to part-time status until I am comfortable with the level of course work and material required from a lobo in my situation. I will also seek a minimum of three hours of tutoring per week with TRiO/Student Support Services, the Math/Science Center and the Writing Center.

Thank-you for your consideration and time, if you need any further paperwork you may contact me at (505) 123.4567 or by email at lobo@unm.edu.

Respectfully,

Lobo Louie

- To assist students in becoming active in the learning process.

Participant Responsibilities:

- Attending class on a regular basis
- Be prepared. This means bringing textbook, notes, homework, pen/pencil, current assignments, course syllabus, and other necessary materials for tutoring
- Attempt to complete the homework assignments on your own before receiving tutoring
- To be productive during the tutoring sessions. This means no excessive socializing.
- Prepare for tutoring sessions by creating questions to ask the tutor regarding assignments

Tutor Responsibilities:

- Using examples to demonstrate concepts and theories, providing opportunity for practice
- Making appropriate referrals to workshops and online resources to help students with study skills
- Complete Participant Contact Logs for the Tutor Coordinator to enter into Student Access (SA) database utilized during the Annual Performance Report (APR)

Final Thoughts on Tutoring:

- The Tutor’s Job
The tutor’s job is to assist you in the learning process, not to answer every question or solve every problem you might have. Nor is it the tutor’s job to provide you with services that might give you an unfair academic advantage. The tutor is there to help you understand and/or review concepts covered in your courses, not to do your coursework.
- You Are Responsible for Your Own Performance
If you have questions or problems beyond the scope of the tutor-tutee relationships, please see your professor.
- Tutoring is a Resource
The TRIO/Student Support Services program is not intended to be a convenience to you, but rather a resource you may access if you act responsibly.

I have read the above Participant Contract for Tutoring Services and understand my responsibilities while in the program. I also understand that failure to comply with these requirements could result in removal from the TRIO/Student Support Services program.
