UNM-GALLUP LIMITED OPERATIONS DAILY UPDATE:

Today's COVID-19 operational status report for the UNM-Gallup campus:

- We remain under our limited operations. Classes are held remotely with the exception of a few Health Science courses. Students – please be in contact with your instructor(s) via UNM Learn.
- UNM-Gallup facilities are accessible by authorized Tier 1 personnel only. All other personnel should continue working remotely until further notice.
- The fitness trail remains open; a face mask or covering is required while exercising. Trail equipment remains closed.
- Zollinger Library: Online services, scanning, and curbside pickup is available. Request a Service here. UNM-G community members can request an appointment here.
- Bookstore: Curbside pickup runs through August 31.
- Daily self-reporting policy remains in effect. If you need to come to campus, please coordinate access to a building with your supervisor and campus police—and be sure to respond to the daily COVID-19 self-reporting email that all UNM-Gallup personnel receive each morning from the main campus. Face masks are always required on campus.

GOVERNOR TO ANNOUNCE AMENDED EMERGENCY PUBLIC HEALTH ORDER:

Governor Michelle Luhan Grisham will host a remote news conference tomorrow afternoon at 3 p.m. (live on Facebook) to discuss amendments to the state’s emergency public health order. These changes reflect the state’s recent progress against COVID-19.

Effective Saturday, Aug. 29:

- Houses of worship may operate at 40 percent of maximum occupancy of any enclosed building—an increase from 25 percent—in accordance with COVID-safe practices.
- Food and drink establishments may provide indoor dining services at 25 percent of maximum occupancy with COVID-safe practices as well. These establishments may also continue to provide outdoor dining options, carryout, and delivery services.

The forthcoming new emergency public health order will be effective through at least mid-September. You can read the full release here.
COVID-19 TESTING CONTINUES THROUGH SEPTEMBER AT UNM-G:

The New Mexico Department of Health announced today that it will continue to offer COVID-19 testing at UNM-Gallup’s Lions Hall parking lot through the month of September; though the dates will change beginning next week to Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Pre-registration is preferred but not required. To register, visit here.

TRIO WELCOME BACK WEEK:

TRIO/SSS is welcoming back students with a series of Zoom sessions tomorrow. Learn about how TRIO/SSS will continue to meet your academic needs virtually this fall—and all the services available to you!

MENTAL HEALTH SURVEY FOR ALL UNM STAFF:

The newly formed UNM Campus Mental Health Team, formed by campus mental health providers and key personnel across all UNM campuses, constructed a brief screening tool to help us understand how the pandemic and its related stressors have affected all our lives. Please take 5 minutes to complete this anonymous and confidential mental health screen. At the end you will be directed to support services and resources that are available to you as a part of the Lobo Pack. We thank you for your participation, and are here for you in support. You can link to the screen here:
